Jason,

I am taking a risk by sending you this email. There are many of us at CPD that would love to speak out about "things" but our first amendment rights do not always extend to matters in the work place. We risk losing our careers by speaking out or at the very least, a long and costly court battle. I will never ask you for information but merely provide it to you. I trust that you will never show this email or forward to another.

Let me start by telling you... Be careful with the chief. He and Bellamy are very very tight. They spend a lot of time together. He defends Bellamy rigorously throughout the department. Anyway, there is much much more but I will start with that! If this email appears anywhere or is referenced directly, there will not be another. Please do and continue to do the right thing!

I've been aware for a long time of the cozy relationship between the Chief and Bellamy. Do you think you guys will be allowed to do what you need to do to keep yourselves safe on August 12th or will the "civil rights" attorneys like Fogel force the cops to stand down for Black Lives Matter and Antifa?

It's up in the air at this point. The chief is scared to death of losing his job. He publicly stated it was the commanders on the ground that made the decision to use tear gas, simply trying to insulate himself but yet "supporting" the decision. I believe Capt. Lewis is in charge of yours. She will not let them stop what needs to be done. She is just about the only commander above the rank of lieutenant that has the courage to speak out. I don't think the chief likes her too much because of it. He promoted the rest of them and they lick the ground he walks on. She was already a captain when he got there.

Remember that the kkk originally applied for a permit to rally at circuit ct. That was denied obviously because the City had no authority to grant it. They in turn offered JACKSON park. Be prepared for the city to offer you a different venue. Prepare your argument for that, if you haven't already. Wait to say anything until it comes your way.

Can you please, please write back to me? I just came across this email chain while doing some research. If you really work(ed) for CPD I need to know what really happened on August 12, 2017 before its too late.
